1 May 2015

Coach,

I am writing on behalf of one of my players, Ethan Gant, whom I believe would be an excellent prospect for your program. Ethan is an extremely talented player who has all the ingredients to be a top-level collegiate lacrosse athlete. His stick skills are outstanding, his field vision/lacrosse IQ are second to none and he is one of the best athletes on our team. He is one of those kids that lives and breathes lacrosse. He has as much potential as I have seen in a player in a long time. His natural leadership ability and work ethic made him a team leader from the minute he stepped on our fields. As a freshman midfielder he led our JV team in scoring and was Team Offense MVP. He made Varsity as a sophomore and has been playing both Attack and Midfield contributing significantly at both ends of the field. He is one of our best defensive midfielders, plays on man-down and the wings for face-offs. Next year as a junior he will certainly be a starter and be an All-District player. Ethan's highlight reel speaks for itself. He is strong and fast, has a quick first step and a great shot.

Off the field, Ethan is the example of what we look for in student athletes. He has a strong moral compass, passion in everything he does and exemplary character. He is a great teammate, natural leader and good friend to the other players. He frequently works with younger players and is always helping out, even when he isn't asked. He comes from a great family who are rightfully very proud of him. I have no doubt he is going to mature into a model student athlete and a fine young man.

I know that you may have many of your 2017 players lined up, but please give Ethan a look. He's the real deal and worth a look.

Sincerely,

Chris Arnold
